Newsletter of the Prince George's County Bar Association, Inc.

President's Message

General Motors and Chrysler are not the only organizations that are suffering as a result of the downturn of the economy.

Over the last several years, an average of 100 members decided that they no longer could make the Prince George's County Bar Association a priority. As a result of this decrease in membership and the resulting decrease in revenue and the constant increase in cost of necessary expenses, the Prince George's County Bar Association could use a stimulus package of its own.

The Executive Committee and the Board of Directors have worked diligently to assess the impact on the Bar Association of this economic downturn and ascertain and then put in place viable solutions that include both cost cutting and new sources of revenue while still working to enhance membership services.

With the loss of membership and the related revenue coupled with an inability on the part of prior sponsors to financially support our organization, the Board of Directors has acted decisively to increase revenue by bringing our Lawyer Referral Service in-house, so that we derive all of the benefits of this program and not, as in the past, share part of the revenue with an outside management organization. This change and the suspension of several outreach program expenditures should be a good start toward returning to a position of financial strength and stability.

Any organization is only as strong as its weakest link, and so I am asking every member who receives a referral from the Lawyers Referral Service to not only actively respond to the referral in a timely fashion, but to make as a priority, the sending of the agreed to funds to the Bar Association in a timely manner.

Ladies and Gentlemen our Bar Association, while greatly losing revenue, has tried to meet the need to stay technologically current so that a very high level of service could be provided to the members at the lowest cost possible. In keeping with this and the need to off-set the expenses of new computer technology, the Board of Directors has decided that a minimal increase of $5.00 per year in dues is necessary. We also are asking that each member consider a voluntary contribution in addition to the dues to help defray the cost of computer updates which cost $32,000.

Being a sole practitioner for over 29 years and having three children and seven grandchildren, I can fully appreciate the expenses both personal and business related that each member is faced with each day; but I remind you that the Prince George's County Bar Association has always flourished because of the solidarity and steadfast support of its members.

We are the bridges and ladders that others following us can cross and climb to get to a new level of legal success. Help us make sure that these bridges and ladders remain strong.

Respectfully submitted,

William J. Parker, Jr.
President

National Economic Crisis affected CLS as Well

The national economic crisis is having a negative effect on traditional sources of funding for non-profit organizations in Maryland, and CLS has received its "share". We have received notice of funding reductions from our major funder, Maryland Legal Services Corporation. As a result, we have reduced personnel. Last year, our main concern was having sufficient funds to operate our Foreclosure Prevention Project. While we will continue to pursue funding to expand that project, our main concern right now is to retain sufficient funding to maintain the level of services we provided in past years. Ironically, while our resources have decreased, demand for our services is increasing given this economic crisis. At CLS, we will strive to serve the greatest number of your constituents with the greatest level of professional service.

Free Legal Interpreter Training at CLS

About 45% of the clients we serve are Spanish-speaking. The majority of these clients who are applying for legal representation do not speak sufficient English to communicate with an attorney to address their legal needs. Only few of the attorneys in our database communicate fluently in Spanish. Periodically we will be offering free legal interpreting training. We are announcing these trainings to University of Maryland's students majoring in Spanish. Students from other universities majoring in Spanish are also welcome to attend this training. The training will be held on Tuesday, May 12, 2009, 5:30 pm to 7:00 pm, 6301 Kenilworth Avenue, Suite 150, Riverdale, MD 20737. Light refreshments will be served.

Funding to Pay for Attorneys Fees

CLS continues to refer cases under our Judicare and Contested Custody funding projects made available by Maryland Legal Services Corporation. Attorneys receive $80.00 per hour up to $1,600.00 per case. Cases referred involve family law matters including guardianship. We also refer domestic violence cases, except we will reimburse the attorney for a maximum of five (5) hours only. Attorneys accepting cases under this program are required to participate in our pro bono program as well. For more information please contact Neal T. Conway at 301-864-4907, ext. 10.

Community Legal Services of Prince George's County, Inc., is a non-profit organization established to provide quality civil legal services to low-income persons in Prince George's County. It does this through the generous contribution of legal advice and legal representation by members of the private Bar. Additionally, CLS operates three free legal Clinics in the County. They are located in the Circuit Court House, Oxon Hill, and Langley Park respectively. For more information about our services, please contact Nora C. Eidelman, at 301-864-4907, ext. 12.

Tim Smith is currently the Managing Attorney of Timothy S. Smith & Associates located in Greenbelt. Tim manages 15 attorneys and a staff of 19 who handle a wide variety of matters throughout the metropolitan area. He serves as a motivational speaker on topics such as leadership courage, passion and positivism. Tim is a long time member of the Prince George's County Bar Association, and while with the Jacklitsch Law Group he organized the Bar Association's "Make A Wish" Celebrity Golf Tournaments. He has served as an arbiter in numerous cases, and has tried well over 150 jury trials in his career. He is a graduate of the University of Baltimore School of Law and the University of Maryland, College Park Campus, and also attended the College of William & Mary. He has three grown children and resides with his wife of 29 years, Susan. Though Tim retired from competitive lacrosse several years ago, he still runs ultra marathons with the Annapolis Striders.

Linda M. Gantt is a graduate of the University of Maryland University College and received her law degree from the University of Maryland School of Law. She is licensed to practice law in the State of Maryland and the United States District Court for the District of Maryland. After being admitted, she practiced Family Law, Estate Planning and Probate Law and civil litigation with the law firm of Knight, Manzi, Nussbaum and LaPlaca, P.A. She left that firm to open The Law Office of Linda M. Gantt, LLC, in 2005; and in 2008 formed a partnership with Orlando Barnes to open Gantt and Barnes, LLC. She is a court-approved Best Interest Attorney for Prince George's Circuit Court. She conducts training sessions with the Prince George's County Pro Se Orientation Program. She volunteers as a pro bono attorney for clients needing foreclosure assistance, accepting referrals from the Unity Development Corp., Civil Justice, Inc., and Community Legal Services, Inc. She is the supervising attorney and consultant to the in-house counsel for the Family Crisis Center of Prince George's County. She served as a member of the adjunct faculty of Prince George's County Community College. She is a member of the Prince George's County Bar Association, the Women's Bar Association and Prince George's County Chapter of the Women's Bar Association, and the J. Franklin Bourne Bar Association. She has served on the Board of Directors since 2006.

Janet Hart has represented indigent clients charged with crimes for over 23 years. Her entire career has been spent as an Assistant Public Defender in Prince George's County. She first practiced in the District Court for several years. The bulk of her experience has been representing clients charged with felonies. She has done a wide variety of felony trials including vehicular manslaughter, child abuse, rape and murder. During the course of her career in the Public Defender's Office, she has sat second chair on three death penalty cases and served as lead counsel in one case. Ten years ago she became a District Court supervisor and in 2001 was elevated to Circuit Court supervisor. Twice she has been named Assistant Public Defender of the Year. In 2006, she was given the Death Penalty Litigation Award as well as the Fred Joseph Law Foundation Award. She has been a guest lecturer at University of Maryland and Prince George's Community College. She would consider it an honor to serve on the Board of Director's for the Prince George's County Bar Association.

CHILDREN'S WAITING AREA A REALITY

If you were at the opening of the Courthouse you were probably impressed with the stately courtrooms, polished woodwork, marble floors and the feeling of solemnity, unless you happen to turn a corner and find the Children's Waiting Area. Here are large windows letting in bright sunlight, primary colors that smile and accessories that shout fun and laughter. Here is a place of retreat away from the seriousness of the courthouse and the problems they or their parents face. Here is a place of caring, learning and safety, if only for a short time.

Although the court has provided the space, it is the members of the Prince George's County Bar Association who provided the funds to furnish the Children's Waiting Area. It was the guidance provided by Linda Morris, Chairperson for this project, whose wise use of the funds created this warm and cheerful space. I encourage all of our members to drop by and take a look at what their contributions have accomplished.

SEEKING THE SIX PACK (OR AT LEAST AVOIDING THE KEG)

With Spring in full swing and hot summer days right around the corner, everyone is focused on being “summer ready”. The sweaters come off and the arms come out, and some of us even venture onto the beach. If the thought of this makes you nervous, then you should probably be considering how to work towards obtaining a smaller midsection, which really can’t be accomplished without you making overall improvements in your physique. That’s because there really is no such thing as “spot reduction”. Instead, your body loses fat from all over, more in areas where you genetically release fat the quickest, and less in areas where your body tends to want to hold onto fat longer. Everyone has certain areas that release fat more or less easily. But if you work hard to reduce your overall body fat percentage, all areas will gradually come down. That includes the layer of fat that covers most of our abs.

What you need to know now is how to get your body to release enough fat that you begin to shed it even in your “stubborn” fat areas - like your abs. Your first thought is probably that you need to eat less and do lots more cardiovascular work. Well that’s partly, but not entirely, true. What will cause you to burn the most fat, around the clock, and reveal toned muscles (which is all abs are) is weight training. That’s right...good old weight training! If you’ve watched any of the weekend infomercials or the morning news talk-shows, you have to have heard by now that what people really need to engage in is more weight training or resistance type exercise to reduce the accumulation of body fat. Many women will shy away from the idea of lifting weights, but any fitness expert OR doctor will tell you that there are numerous benefits to weight training for both men and women, and that it’s the single best way to improve the development of tone and definition. And what are abs? Abs are the development of visible abdominal muscles and the absence of fat on those muscles. The same holds true for arms that don’t jiggle when you wave goodbye....tight toned arms (like Michelle Obama’s) are the result of her development of triceps and biceps muscles which are visible due to a decrease in fat in the same area. Hours and hours of cardio won’t give you hard abs or tight toned arms - you have to weight train to get those highly coveted assets.

Now doing cardio does contribute to the visibility of the muscles which you will develop by weight training. In fact, unless you are naturally lean and slender, you will need to do some cardio to uncover the nice defined muscle which you develop by weight training.

So you will have to reduce your body fat by either doing cardio or dieting, or preferably, by doing a combination of both in moderate amounts. What type of body fat am I talking about to be able to see actual muscle definition? In a nutshell, you need to be around 14-22 percent body fat for a woman and 6-13 percent for a man in order to be able to see the muscles that have been developed through weight training. So it’s no surprise that people who have great abs also have an overall lower body fat percentage. Because again, you won’t see them if there’s a layer of fat on top, and you won’t see them if you’re a cardio queen but you don’t work your abs. Many typical American women, the ones I see walking around the courthouse regularly, probably fall into the bodyfat percentage range of 28-35%. So it’s really not such a daunting challenge to get to where you need to be to see a flat tummy and jiggle-proof arms by summer.

To achieve a flatter tummy and even work towards visible abs and other visibly toned body parts, you only need to follow a simple formula CONSISTENTLY. Get in a minimum of three sessions of cardio each week for 30 minutes. That can be walking at a brisk pace, jogging, dancing, playing a sport, or using a piece of cardio equipment. Next, just watch what you eat. There’s no need for a full out diet if you just want to gradually reveal some muscle tone by the summer. You’ve got a couple months and in that period of time, if you're doing your cardio, weight training, and watching your diet, there's no need for severe calorie restriction. Just eliminate some things you know you can do without - like soda. Try having your salad dry instead of drenching it in dressing. Get rid of sauces like mayo and butter. Use Smart Balance (butter substitute) instead. Limit your sweets to the weekend. Watch portion size (that means only eat half your meal whenever you eat out at a restaurant and save the other half for your next meal 3 hours later). Small things like this will add up to really make a difference when combined with exercise.

Finally, the main component when seeking a six pack, or toned arms, or sexy shoulders, is the weight training component. This component involves about 20-30 minutes a day, three days a week, of abdominal and some overall body toning exercises. And you don't even have to have a gym membership. I've found that the best abdominal exercises don't require fancy equipment. Here are four you can do in your home that work as good as any piece of equipment:

The Plank- (please do an online search for visuals of this exercise) where you lie on your stomach on the floor, prop yourself up on your elbows and tips of your toes, and hold the position for 1 minute with a straight back and abdominals held in tight.

Side Plank - (please do an online search for a visual of this exercise) where you lie on the floor on your side, then prop yourself up on one elbow, and lift your side and hips up off of the floor in a side crunching motion before returning back to the floor on your side.

Crunches - just about everyone knows this exercise. With your feet shoulder width apart while lying on your back on the floor (knees bent and pointing at the ceiling), you place your hands behind your head and crunch your body up towards the ceiling.

Twisting crunches- lie on the floor just like with crunches, except either lock your feet under a sofa (or heavy piece of furniture) with legs spread further apart than shoulder width. With hands behind your head, crunch up all the way until your torso forms a 90 degree angle from the floor and touch your right elbow to your left knee and then your left elbow to your right knee before returning slowly to the lying position on your back.

All four of these exercises should be done for 15-20 repetitions (even if you have to take a short break) for 3 sets each.

Additionally, you should do 3 sets of 15 repetitions of pushups (do "girl" or knee pushups if you can't do standard pushups) and 3 sets of 15 repetitions of biceps curls and shoulder presses. And you don't need a gym membership or dumbbells to do these exercises. You can use large cans of soup to do both exercises. But investing in a set of 5 pound and 10 pound dumbbells would be inexpensive and a good idea.

There you have it! That's all it takes to uncover developed abs and toned arms. The key is combining all three components mentioned herein. More importantly, though, is the need for consistency. Put in an hour total 3 days a week to follow this program and you won't mind at all wearing short sleeves when summer approaches....you may even don a bikini at the beach in June.
